

25X9

Approved For Release 2001/07/12 : CIA-RDP83B00823R000700010052-3

Next 1 Page(s) In Document Exempt

Approved For Release 2001/07/12 : CIA-RDP83B00823R000700010052-3

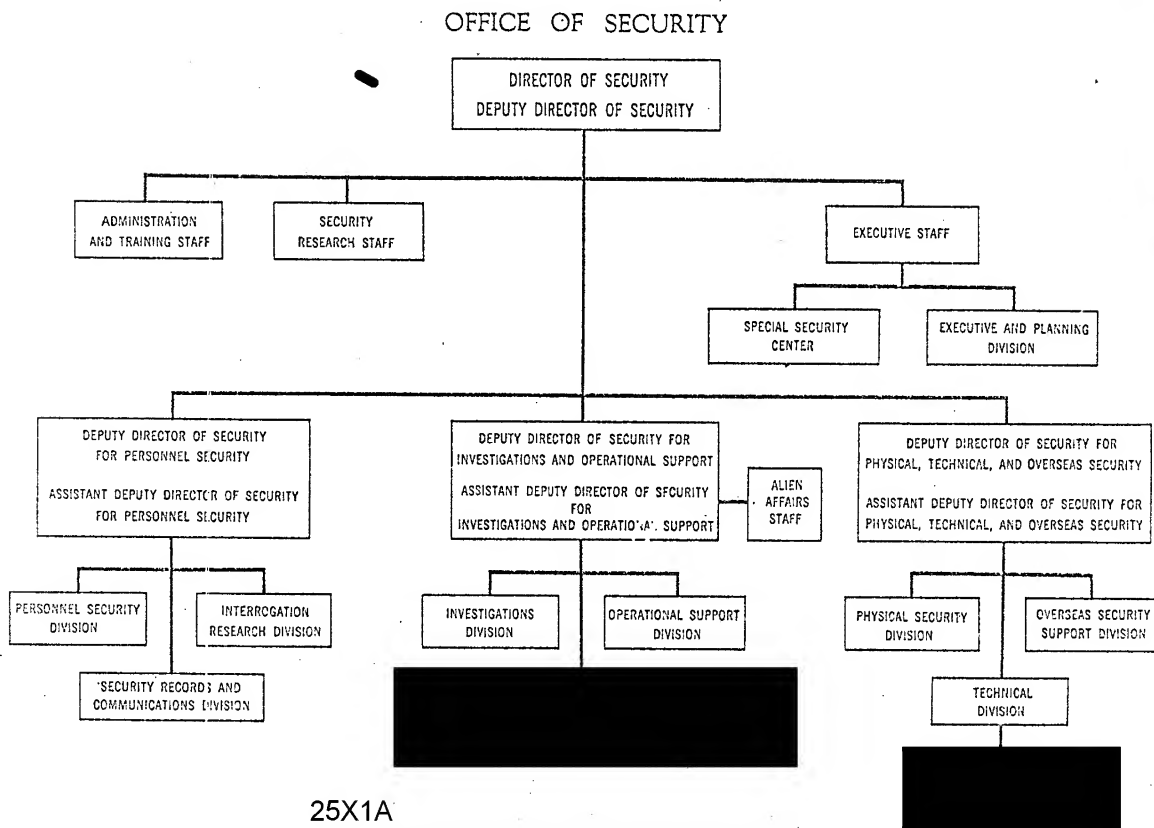

25X1A

68

70080 4-70 CIA

SECRET

Revised: 27 March 1970 (501)

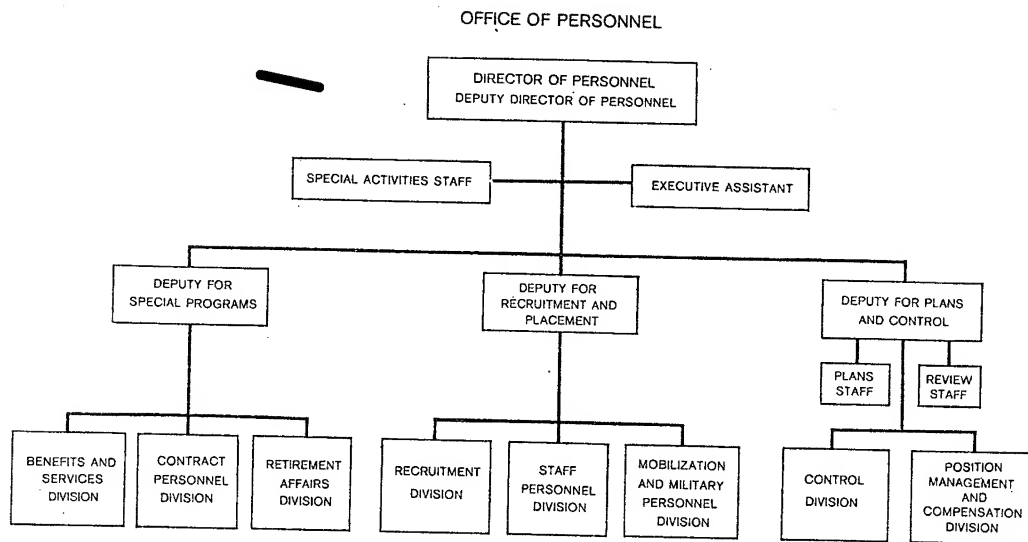

25X1A

ORGANIZATION

SECRET

25X1A

SECRET

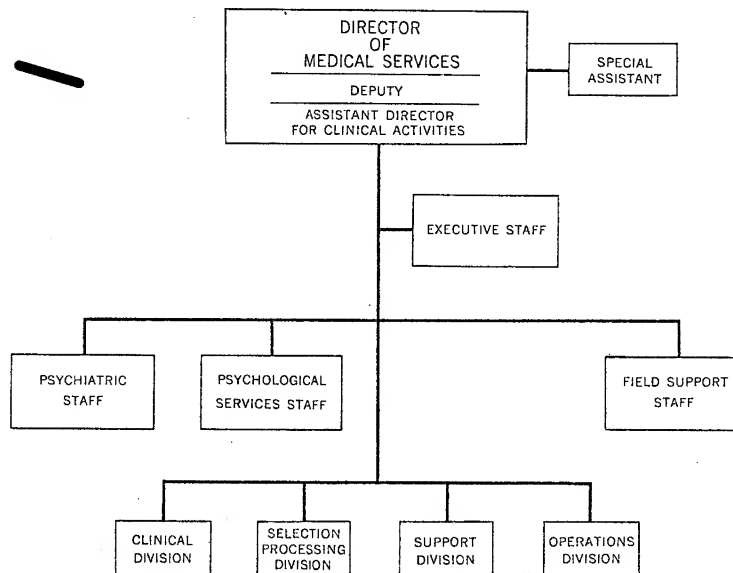

ORGANIZATION

25X1A

510142 11-70 CIA

54

OFFICE OF MEDICAL SERVICES

SECRET

Revised: 30 October 1970 (578)

GROUP 1
Excluded from automatic downgrading and declassification

SECRET

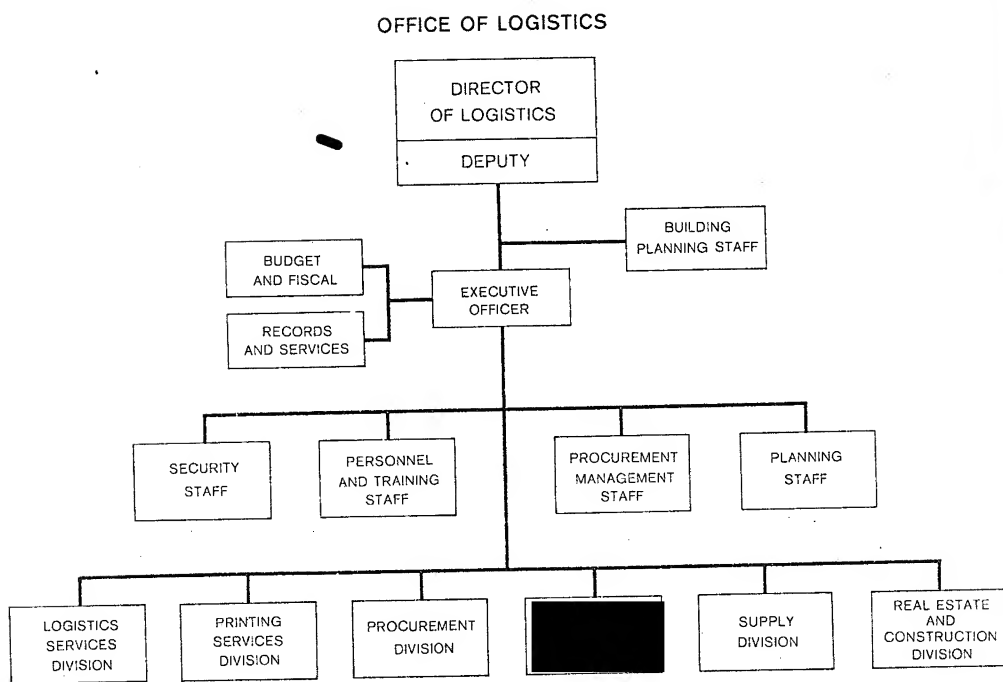

ORGANIZATION

25X1A

60

SECRET

Revised: 30 July 1971 (631)

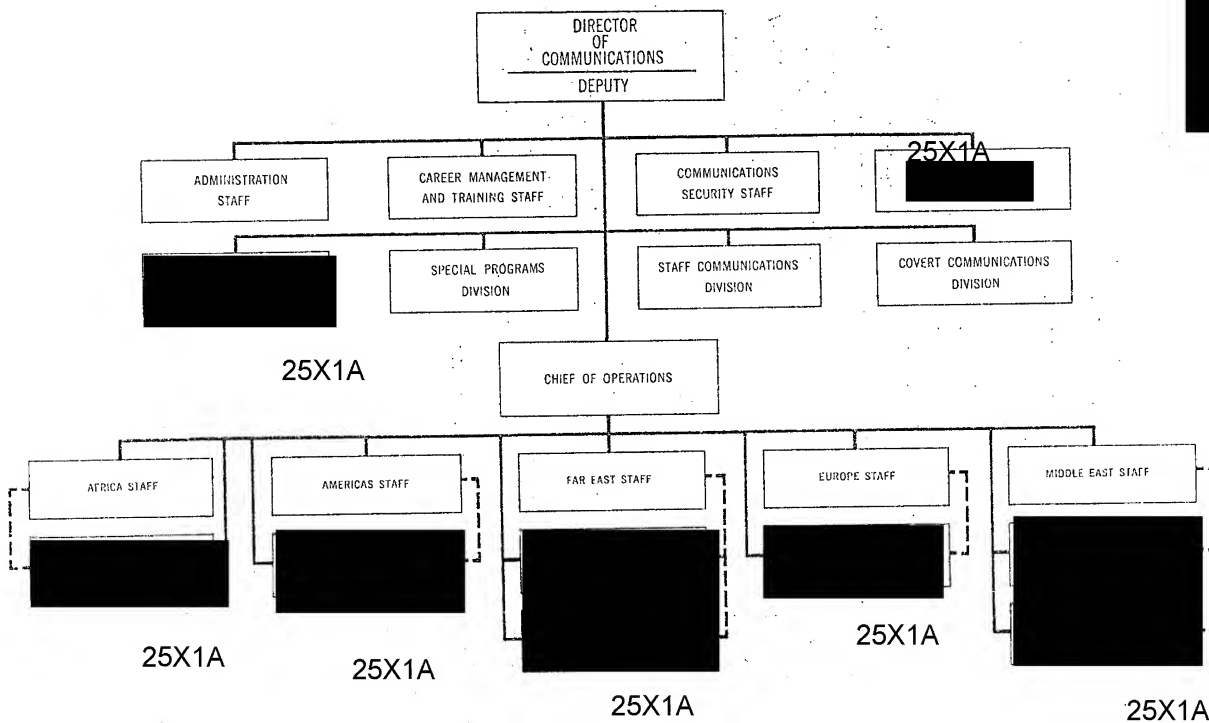

25X1A

SECRET

ORGANIZATION

25X1A

OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

77140 10-69 CIA

56

SECRET

Revised: 15 October 1989 (492)

SECRET

ORGANIZATION

Office of Security/Deputy Directorate for Support

Function

The Director of Security is basically responsible for the personnel, physical, and technical security of the Central Intelligence Agency. Under this broad charter relating to sensitive Agency positions and the protection of intelligence sources and methods, it is his mandate to maintain an on-going program ensuring the security of our personnel and installations. In carrying out these overall duties, the Office of Security:

A. Establishes security standards to be applied to all personnel to be employed by, detailed to, or otherwise associated with the Agency in any capacity.

25X1A

B. [REDACTED]

25X1A

[REDACTED] directs the investigation of Staff applicants and provides operational support to all elements of the Agency.

C. Establishes policies to protect Agency classified material and to prevent the physical penetration of Agency areas, buildings, and installations, whether in the U.S. or overseas.

25X1A

D. Maintains the Agency's audio countermeasures and technical security programs, including overseas inspections, assessment [REDACTED]

25X1A

E. Conducts security interviews utilizing polygraph and general interrogation techniques in a screening program as it relates to Staff applicants as well as agents and other operational assets.

F. Establishes security policy for the extraordinary protection of certain designated intelligence collection programs conducted by CIA and other agencies represented on USIB.

G. Provides policy guidance on security matters to the U.S. Intelligence Community through the mechanism of the Security Committee, United States Intelligence Board.

Strength

25X9

- a. [REDACTED] as of 31 December 1972
b. [REDACTED] FY 73 authorization

Funds

25X1A

[REDACTED] FY 73 Allocation
[REDACTED] FY 74 Request

Howard J. Osborn

1. Mr. Osborn, who is 54 years of age, attended the University of Michigan, received his B.S. degree from Virginia Polytechnical Institute in 1941, and is a graduate of Harvard University's Advanced Management Program.

2. Mr. Osborn served with the Army in Military Intelligence from 1942 to 1946 and attained the rank of Major. In the latter years of his military service, Mr. Osborn served as principal liaison officer of the War Department General Staff with the Manhattan Engineering District, and in this capacity he travelled extensively throughout Germany and France.

25X1A 3. Mr. Osborn came with the Agency in 1947. His assignments since his entrance on duty have been: 1947-49, Intelligence Officer/OCD:

25X1A Assistant to the Inspector General; 1958-59, Deputy Chief of Station, [REDACTED] 1959-60, Chief of Base, [REDACTED] 1960-62, Deputy Chief, SR 25X1A Division; 1962-63, Chief, SR Division; 1963-64, Deputy Director of Security; since 1964, Director of Security.

25X1A

Office of Security/Deputy Directorate for Support

I. MISSION & FUNCTION

The Director of Security is basically responsible for the personnel, physical, and technical security of the Central Intelligence Agency. It is his primary responsibility to maintain a continuing program, on a world-wide basis, which ensures the security of Agency personnel, installations, and classified material.

As a secondary facet of his responsibilities, the Director of Security establishes security standards for the extraordinary protection of certain designated intelligence collection programs, and he provides policy guidance on security matters to the U.S. Intelligence Community in his capacity as Chairman of the Security Committee, United States Intelligence Board.

II. SECURITY AUTHORITIES

The basic statutory authority on which CIA personnel security practices are based is the National Security Act of 1947, Section 102d(3) which charges the DCI with protecting intelligence sources and methods. The Director has also declared all positions in CIA occupied by staff employees to be sensitive positions within the meaning of Section 3(b) of Executive Order 10450.

The Director of Security is also responsible to the DCI for the development of security policy in the discharge of his duties set forth in NSCID No. 1 with respect to centralized direction for the protection of compartmented intelligence. By terms of 1962 and 1969 agreements between the Director of Central Intelligence and the Department of Defense, the DCI was to provide uniform compartmented security policy to [REDACTED]

25X1C

25X1C

III. ORGANIZATIONAL SIZE

The Office of Security currently has a total of [REDACTED] professional and clerical employees assigned to the Headquarters complex and [REDACTED]

25X1A

25X1A

IV. FUNDS

The FY 1973 allocation on program wide security services covered the following general categories:

Investigations
Management Support
Personnel Security
Physical Security

Total

25X1A

V. PERSONNEL SECURITY

The Director of Security is responsible for the execution of the Agency's security program insofar as it relates to personnel security, polygraph interrogations, and the appropriate review of security records. In having primary cognizance of the security screening arm of the Agency, it is his responsibility to apply an appropriate high security criteria in order to preclude the penetration of the Agency or the employment of individuals who do not meet Staff standards and the requirements of Executive Order 10450.

The Office of Security attempts to maintain a strong interface with all Agency personnel through a positive program of assistance during periods of personal problems, family crisis, or other emergencies. The Office of Security operates on a twenty-four hour basis and, through liaison with police and other Government agencies, our representatives are able to assist employees who have difficulties with law enforcement officials. The basic premise is that it is good security to assist the employee, develop his cooperation, and prevent any adverse publicity which might prove an embarrassment to the Agency.

VI. INVESTIGATIONS & OPERATIONAL SUPPORT

The Director of Security is responsible for the preparation and execution of the Agency security program insofar as it relates to the fields of investigation and the domestic support of Agency covert operations. The Office of Security schedules field investigations, including checks of other Government agencies, on all types of personnel of interest to the Agency, including those of interest to proprietary organizations, development projects, and other clandestine programs. He is also responsible for conducting special activities pertaining to the overall alien program.

25X1C

[REDACTED]

of the Agency; and supervises custodial and other aspects of defector cases in conjunction with interested components of the Deputy Directorate for Plans.

VII. PHYSICAL AND TECHNICAL SECURITY

The Director of Security is responsible for the establishment of policies to protect Agency classified material and to prevent the physical penetration of Agency areas, buildings, and installations, whether in the U.S. or overseas. He is also responsible for the world-wide counteraudio program for the Agency, and manages a system of protective equipment designed to detect or neutralize hostile audio devices.

The Office of Security provides comprehensive counteraudio inspections on both a programmed and on-call basis, and it is also involved in a research, development, test, and evaluation effort, the results of which are made available to the United States Intelligence Community. As a service of common

25X1A

[REDACTED]